

APPENDIX I

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY

In 1948, a ten-year-old boy named Lewis Barnavelt went by bus to Capharnaum County, Michigan, New Zebedee, which at that time had a population of six thousand. Lewis now has to live with his uncle Jonathan, after his parents passed away. They live in an old house in a classic style. After some time and then living there, Lewis finally learned that Jonathan's uncle was an ordinary witch, while the neighbour who was also his friend Florence Zimmerman was a stronger wizard. The old house they live in now is a house that was previously owned by Isaac and Selena Izard, they are a married couple who have very strong and evil magic. Before they died, the couple built a huge clock that was very strong that was hidden in a place in the walls of the house that sounded very lasting, especially in silence. Jonathan and Florence have also tried to find it and find the purpose of the watch, unfortunately, they have not managed to find the watch.

At New Zeebede, Lewis got a new school. At his new school, Lewis meets Tarby Corrigan and becomes his best friend, so Lewis wants to impress Tarby because he has become his friend. Until one-day Tarby stayed away and did not want to be friends with Lewis anymore, after showing something magical with the help of his uncle. It turned out that Tarby told this to his father, then assumed that that night Uncle Jonathan wanted Tarby and Lewis to see the incident look like what he wanted, just hypnotized. Tarby also said it was all fake and just a group of strange people. After that, Tarby returned to his activities before making friends with Lewis.

He looked for ways to show other magical things that could make Tarby amazed. At that time, he who only crossed his mind is to wake the dead in. He took the risk without thinking. He learned how to wake a dead person through his uncle's magical book, of course without asking permission first. Lewis did it secretly. On Halloween night, Lewis will do the action to wake the dead. He chose the tomb randomly. He stood on the tomb and did the way he had learned step by step. Until the final step, he must mention the name of the person who will be awakened from the dead. Then suddenly it crossed Lewis's mind and mentioned the name "Selenna" which he didn't even know was who and if there was someone named. The tomb was shaking ground, split little by little, the tomb came a sound. Boom Until something very dark appears. They both got scared and ran away from Cemetery Hill.

After the Halloween night incident, Tarby did not want to talk about it and tried to want to forget it as if nothing had happened. Lewis also seemed to be busy when he was no longer friends with Tarby. Strange things begin to happen, such as when Uncle Jonathan's car is followed by someone, someone starts to forcibly enter and signal that he has stolen the key from a magical watch. Lewis began to conclude that the person who terrorized the incident was Mrs. Izard after he saw the figure and reminded him of what he saw in the tomb and what Uncle Jonathan had said about Mrs. Izard's glasses. Izard. He has let Mrs. Izard come out of his grave and now has stolen the key. Strange events began to occur again when the Hanchett family moved house. They lived across the street from Uncle Jonathan's house. Somebody hired Hanchett's house. Lewis is very curious about the people who live in Hanchett's house. And found out the fact if the person is Mrs. Izard.

Since they knew that the person was Mrs. Izard. From then on the magical clock behind the wall began to beat erratically, sometimes very fast and loud, then soon it was beating slowly. Then, accidentally Lewis found a collection of papers containing Mr. Izard's notes. Izard, and give instructions if Mr. Izard made that watch to redeem the time. That means he will destroy what is already there, then Return to the time he wants. The tool that will make the plan work is the magical clock that has haunted the old house. One night, they found out that Mrs. Izard has entered his old house. They are sure if Mrs. Izard will do something for a long time Mr. Izard planned it, and it certainly wasn't something good. They believe it's time to stop Mr. evil's plans & Mrs. Izard. Uncle Jonathan proposes to start the ceremony. A ritual, Magic show that will make the clock come out of its hiding place. They tried various methods, first, they put burning candles in all windows. Furthermore, Mrs. Zimmerman playing organ in the front room. Play music and play a game from Bon-Sour-One-Frank until the Ace of Nitwits appears. It was a poker game that was named by Lewis like that.

The three of them often play poker together. They continue to play cards, until the appearance of strange cards by themselves. While the clock is still ticking and the organ is played. Then, they come to conclude the visible clue that they have to find the eight ball. It is one of the fortune-telling things you can buy at dime stores. When you shuffled the ball, 3 white cards suddenly appeared saying yes, no, and maybe. Then, Uncle Jonathan and Mrs. Zimmermann tried to ask the eight ball, "Where is the clock?" but there was no response, even though they had tried to ask questions in various languages. So, Lewis curiously volunteered to ask the eight ball. Lewis wants to know if he tries, there might be a response. After all, it was the ball he bought in Chicago. Sure enough, the response is visible from the eight ball and the hint leads to the basement. Lewis, Uncle Jonathan, and Mrs. Zimmermann headed for the cellar. The deeper the room, the louder the sound of the ticking of the clock, the more magical tricks that protect the clock's existence.

Arriving at the end of the place there was a door and behind the door, there was a room like a long corridor, with wooden arches. At the end of the tunnel, it starts moving closer. And it turned out to be an object that was kept, an old and plain clock, like the Waterbury eight-day clock, the pendulum bobbing behind the glass door. After the magical clock was seen, it was now Mrs. Izard appeared. He is so arrogant and evil. Mrs. Izard even made the bodies of Uncle Jonathan and Mrs. Zimmermann is heading towards Mrs. Izard, it became completely frozen and could not move anything. Mrs. Izard also told Lewis to turn around, but Lewis was still silent for a few moments while looking at the clock. Mrs. Izard snapped at Lewis to obey his order to turn around, but Lewis instead walked forward to the clock so that made Mrs. Izard threatened Lewis for not doing that. Lewis immediately took and threw the watch and made it crumble to pieces. The pieces of the clock began to disappear one by one. And then disappeared. Lewis turned and saw if Mrs. Izard has also disappeared. All that was left was the skull as if staring. The glasses are still perched on a pair of empty eye holes. Shattered glasses.

After the day of the destruction of Mrs. Izard and his magical hour, Uncle Jonathan, Mrs. Zimmermann, and Lewis were sitting around a campfire that was lit in front of the driveway. They told me about the courage of the action that Lewis had taken was a very appropriate and dangerous thing to do. Then, Lewis also claimed that what awoke Mrs. Izard from death is his doing. Uncle Jonathan also already knew that, because Lewis's flashlight was left in Mrs.'s grave. Izard. Uncle Jonathan also knows that Lewis did it to impress Tarby. Lewis was very relieved after telling the truth about them, and they didn't punish Lewis for that. Finally, Lewis also told me that he got a new friend, a girl named Rose Rita Pottinger. Lewis loved it because Rose knew a lot about the types of Cannons. Then, they went and prepared to sleep.
