Synopsis

Everything, Everything

Madeline Whittier a girl who suffers from a rare disease, namely Severe Combined Immunodeficiency (SCID) or Combined Immune Deficiency. SCID is a genetic disorder that causes a major part of the artificial immune system to be paralyzed, the sufferer is very susceptible to infectious diseases. Anything can trigger her body to become sick, among others, from perfume, cleaning fluids, or food spices that are eaten, the essence of which is that Madeline is allergic to the world.

For seventeen years Madeline never left her home. She only knows her mother who is also a personal doctor and nurse Carla who has been taking care of her since she was a child. Madeline's father and brother had died when she was a baby in an accident, only Madeline and her mother survived the incident. Since then her mother has become very protective of Madeline. Madeline's health is checked regularly, there are special hourly records regarding her health development. Her mother always made sure that Madeline's health was always stable. Everything that will be touched and consumed by Madeline must be sterilized beforehand, even in the house there is a device to sterilize the air circulation. Even though she never leaves the house, Madeline has the same activities as the other girls, such as reading books, playing Pictionary (guess the word), homeschooling, online learning with the occasional tutor visiting Madeline at her home. Madeline's favorite reads are Daniel Keyes's Flower for Algernon and Antoine de Saint-Exupery's The Little Prince.

Madeline's life slowly changed after the arrival of a new family who moved next door. The family consist of a father, mother, and two children a young man named Olly and younger sister named Kara. Secretly, Madeline watched Olly from behind the window of her room which directly faced her house. The interaction between the two, initially only through the window by writing words on each glass. A few days later, the two of them began to dare to communicate via email. Telling anything, playing guessing words, even playing question and answers. The communicate was done quietly, secretly opening emails at night, quietly chatting in front of the window.

One day, Olly and her sister Kara came to Madeline's house with the cake her mother had made. A cake that Olly thinks is not suitable for humans to eat because of its hard texture. The visit was used by Olly so that she could meet Madeline in person, but her mother strictly forbade Madeline to cross the air sterilization room.

Until one day Madeline told her nurse that she liked the next-door neighbor named Olly and asked her nurse to let Olly meet her in the house. Without the knowledge to her mother, Carla brought Madeline and Olly into her house, on the condition that they could not touch, had to be about one meter apart, and undergo disinfection to ensure she was sterile before the meeting. From these meetings, the seeds of love grew in their hearts. Madeline takes risks by having a relationship with someone, while she lives an abnormal life like any girl in general, her illness has kept her locked up in the house all her life.

Because of the love she has, Madeline dares to leave the house and breathe free air. Together with Olly, she ventured to go to the place she really wanted to visit, namely Hawaii. For the first time, Madeline was driving, kissing the air, boarding a plane, and enjoying the beautiful Hawaiian beaches with her loved ones without her mother knowing, of course. Madeline ran away from home, she felt depressed about her illness because her mother kept forbidding her such and such.

Madeline's desperate actions initially disapproved of Olly, who has very worried about her health, but Madeline lied by saying that she was taking medication to survive outside the home. Madeline who has been violating all the rules and regulation of her own health for seventeen years has been on her way. However, everything feels odd. Madeline did not feel any pain and even her body condition was relatively stable. Either this is the power of love or there are other factors.

After returning from Hawaii, she approached his nurse to stay for a few days to avoid his mother. Thanks to meeting, Madeline learns that Carla has been fired by her mother because she couldn't keep herself from Olly. Thanks to that meeting too, Madeline shared that she was fine while in Hawaii, even though she did not take any medicines. Starting from here everything opens, Carla tells everything about Madeline, about Madeline's mother. Her mother, who was too depressed from being abandoned by the people she loved in one day. Caused her to no longer want to be abandoned by the only person she had Madeline. Including making lies that caused Madeline tormented for seventeen years of her life.
