

BIBLIOGRAPHY

APPENDIX

APPENDIX

Table 1.1 Lexical Cohesion of Synonymy of the Noun

| Data Code | Page/Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|-----------|--|--------------|
| SN1 | 137:6 | By then, the people of Crete were restive at having to lose their sons and daughters every harvest, and were threatening revolt | Revolt |
| SN2 | 159:6 | If anything, his grin deepened. He vanished and did not return. It was no obedience | No Obedience |
| SN3 | 69:22 | Helios could not speak back openly, but he could make an answer of sorts, a message of defiance to rebalance the scales.... | Defiance |
| SN4 | 12:24 | They looked to my father, waiting for his protest , the flaring of his great fire... | Protest |
| SN5 | 157:13 | And for all her protestations about serving, she did not offer to carry a single dish... | Protestation |

Table 1.2 Lexical Cohesion of Synonymy of the Verb

| Data Code | Page/Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|-----------|--|---------|
| SV1 | 63:8 | Each of them, except for Circe. You were all here when she confessed that she sought her powers openly. She had been warned to stay away, yet she disobeyed | Disobey |
| SV2 | 69:25 | If you strike us, Olympian, we rise higher than before.... | Strike |
| SV3 | 63:12 | She defied my commands and contradicted my authority.... | Defy |
| SV4 | 11:28 | When he was grown he rose up indeed, plucking the thunderbolt from the sky and forcing poisonous herbs down his father's throat.... | Rise Up |

Table 1.3 Lexical Cohesion of Synonymy of the Adjective

| Data Code | Page/Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|-----------|---|-------------|
| SA1 | 54:25 | Since you were born, I pitied you and allowed you license, yet you grew disobedient and proud. Will you make me hate you more? | Disobedient |

| | | | |
|-----|--------|--|-------------|
| SA2 | 151:19 | Jason would never listen to such slander! I delivered him the fleece! He loves me!" She stood fixed in her outrage, bright and defiant | Defiant |
| SA3 | 253:9 | All those stories I had hidden from him leapt into my mind. Of Odysseus beating the mutinous Thersites into unconsciousness.... | Mutinous |
| SA4 | 28:31 | He drew my arms back from his neck. "There is no need for such a scene. You knew this would come. I cannot rot all my life underground , with nothing of my own".... | Underground |

Table 1.4 Lexical Cohesion of Antonymy of the Noun

| Data Code | Page/ Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|------------|--|-----------|
| AN1 | 197:8 | Will you let us have a little peace ... | Peace |
| AN2 | 324:11 | But it struck me then that at the root of all those reasons was a sort of fear. And I have never been a coward | Coward |
| AN3 | 195:10 | And how would such a man go home again, to his fireside and his olives? His domestic harmony with me was closer to a sort of rehearsal, I realized.... | Harmony |
| AN4 | 82:33 | Of course. It is the place where my father threw his strength to Zeus and proved his loyalty . In the sky above this place, he vanquished a Titan giant, drenching the land with blood.... | Loyalty |
| AN5 | 99:12 | I had never been given such deference in my life.... | Deference |
| AN6 | 62:24 | We have found our way to an agreement | Agreement |
| AN7 | 270:32 | Lady, you and I are in accord | Accord |

Table 1.5 Lexical Cohesion of Antonymy of the Verb

| Data Code | Page/ Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|------------|---|--------|
| AV1 | 99:11 | Even Polydamas, in his borrowed tunic, obeyed . I almost wanted to laugh.... | Obey |
| AV2 | 217:12 | Her flashing eyes promised: just so will I wear you, if you do not submit and beg for mercy.... | Submit |
| AV3 | 294:23 | Odysseus' favorite task was the sort that only had to be performed once: raiding a town, | Defeat |

| | | | |
|-----|--------|---|------------|
| | | defeating a monster, finding a way inside an impenetrable city.... | |
| AV4 | 137:9 | The frightened king agreed , and one of the youths chosen was his own child, Theseus.... | Agree |
| AV5 | 265:10 | We plotted each night's strategy against the suitors together, if she should come down or not, speak haughtily or conciliate , if I should bring out the good wine, if we should stage for them some confrontation... | Conciliate |

Table 1.6 Lexical Cohesion of Antonymy of the Adjective

| Data Code | Page/ Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|------------|---|----------|
| AA1 | 126:27 | "It is funny," she said, "that even after all this time, you still believe you should be rewarded, just because you have been obedient | Obedient |
| AA2 | 200:8 | A year of peaceful days he had stayed with me, and still every night he went to war.... | Peaceful |
| AA3 | 228:31 | I loved his certainty, his world that was an easy place of right action divided sharply from wrong, of mistake and consequence, of monsters defeated | Defeated |
| AA4 | 63:23 | So it is agreed : I will sire no more children upon her.... | Agreed |

Table 1.7 Lexical Cohesion of Hyponymy of the Noun

| Data Code | Page/ Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|------------|--|------------------|
| HN1 | 67:7 | His jaw was set, his lips bled pale with anger | Anger |
| HN2 | 58:10 | "I understand of course that you can make no judgments now. You must take counsel. But you should know that I would be happy to give Zeus a more...impressive demonstration .".... | Demonstration |
| HN3 | 97:36 | But I could feel their tension pressing thickly into the air, the choking terror rising in them moment by moment. Death was coming.... | Terror |
| HN4 | 268:6 | After that, he went on some raid every month.... | Raid |
| HN5 | 246:5 | My body, with its simple good sense, balked at self-destruction | Self-Destruction |
| HN6 | 257:5 | My mind leapt with images of destruction : the earth sent spiraling into darkness, islands | Destruction |

| | | | |
|-----|-------|--|-----------|
| | | drowned in the sea, my enemies transformed and crawling at my feet.... | |
| HN7 | 312:8 | If you did such a thing, it is deepest treason . You are more owed to exile than ever. You deserve greater punishment still, all I can give you. You have exposed us to Zeus' wrath for some foolish whim.... | Treason |
| HN8 | 63:12 | She defied my commands and contradicted my authority. She has turned her poisons against her own kind and committed other treacheries as well.... | Treachery |
| HN9 | 59:37 | Anyway, he is eager to imagine how such strength may be used to his benefit. His worry is over Zeus. He must paint us just right: that we are threat enough that Zeus should think twice, but not so much that he is forced to act.... | Threat |

Table 1.8 Lexical Cohesion of Hyponymy of the Verb

| Data Code | Page/Line | Text | Word |
|-----------|-----------|---|-----------|
| HV1 | 267:22 | I went to my mother after that, but he had set guards to keep me out, and when I shouted past them she said I must be patient and not provoke him.... | Provoke |
| HV2 | 290:13 | Oceanos' most likely. Our grandfather. She will be terrorizing the nymphs as she used to. I was there when the Minotaur was born. I helped cage it... | Terrorize |
| HV3 | 145:34 | He must throw a rock among them, and in their rage, they would attack each other... | Attack |
| HV4 | 312:14 | "You would not. Zeus will destroy you" | Destroy |
| HV5 | 269:22 | He had always hated those he thought betrayed him.... | Hate |
| HV6 | 321:14 | He looped it around the rudder, yanking at it, fighting to point us back out of the straits.... | Fight |
| HV7 | 252:21 | I thought he knew me too. But he was shouting. He said I could not steal from him and raid his lands. He would teach me a lesson | Raid |
| HV8 | 206:10 | If I do not disturb the cattle, then I will reach home with my men. But if any are harmed , your father will loose his wrath.... | Harm |
| HV9 | 117:3 | Minos raged on, but I was watching her.... | Rage |

| | | | |
|------|-------|---|------------|
| HV10 | 137:6 | By then, the people of Crete were restive at having to lose their sons and daughters every harvest, and were threatening revolt.... | Threaten |
| HV11 | 54:23 | You dare to contradict me? You who cannot light a single flame, or call one drop of water?.... | Contradict |
| HV12 | 63:16 | She is exiled to a deserted island where she can do no more harm. She leaves tomorrow.... | Exile |