

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS

After analyzing the data, this study concludes that. There are one combination of compound noun in Automotive and modification vehicle terms. The first, Noun + Noun combination for examples: Access Panel (5), this combination noun and noun formed this compound noun is headed because this Tools is component very important the cars and second meaning of word panel still relation and predictable with function of tools or part; Air Bag (9), This combination noun and noun formed this compound noun is headless because this Air is gas and the second meaning of word Bag not relation with function of gas but this compound is specialized in a specific kind of Tools for safety in the car.

The second, Adjective + Noun combination for examples: Black Box (23), This combination adjective and noun formed this compound noun is headed because this tools is part of data or security and second meaning second meaning of word Box still relation and predictable with function of tools.